DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claim 1 is provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/445614. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 2 is allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record neither teaches nor reasonably suggests the method of inactivating cancer cells, where at least a sub-sequence of the DNA of cancer cells and the surrounding tissues are removed from the patient and determined, where the sub-sequences of the DNA of the cancer cells are different than the surrounding tissue DNA sub-sequences, and then irradiating the patient with a series of x-ray pulses having a sequence of frequencies that energize the series of bases of the sub-sequence of the DNA of the cancer cells, as required by claim 2.

Art Unit: 2882

The best prior art of record, Cyrulnik (US 5,044,006) irradiates the patient in order to sweep the microwave frequencies of the amplitude modulated x-ray beams in order to find the resonant frequency of the amplitude modulation with the DNA of the cancer cells, and then irradiates the patient at that modulation. Govind (US 5,690,109) teaches the practice of using Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (NMR) to find the right combination of magnetic field intensity and radio frequency for amplitude modulation of the magnetic field intensity.

In both prior art references, the resonant frequencies for the amplitude modulation of the radiation of choice is determined without removal of cells from the patient and without determination of at least a portion of a DNA sequence.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Gordon (US 4,622,952) teaches the practice of using Magnetic Resonance to selectively destroy malignant tissues.
